The School of Prague developed a large range of semiological subjects and cultural studies : poetry, theater, cinema, folklore and fashion. (It is here where Barthes loaned his idea about the Fashion and the dress meanings he wrote as his semiological research of the Object (also repeated by Baudrillard in a less than imaginative fashion).

The Prague School and Its Legacy | Edited by Yishai Tobin

The Prague school, or Prague linguistic circle [Pražský lingvistický kroužek], was an influential group of literary critics and linguists in Prague and Brno. Its proponents developed methods of structuralist literary analysis and a theory of the standard language and of language cultivation during the years 1926–1939.

Prague school - Monoskop
The Prague school or Prague linguistic circle is a language and literature society. It started in 1926 as a group of linguists, philologists and literary critics in Prague. Its proponents developed methods of structuralist literary analysis and a theory of the standard language and of language cultivation from 1928 to 1939. The linguistic circle was founded in the Café Derby in Prague, which is also where meetings took place during its first years.
